

Buddi has an opportunity for a dynamic and energetic Sales Account Manager to join our Health Sales Team covering the Midlands and surrounding areas.

You'll need to be a confident and self-motivated sales professional who's able to demonstrate a strong and successful sales and account management background. Experience within the assistive technology sector will be a distinct advantage.

As a Sales Account Manager your role will have a key focus on driving new business within a B2B environment, as well as building and developing existing customer accounts for organic growth.

To do this, you must be proactive, highly organised, a strong communicator and empathetic, as well as possess a determination to be successful in a challenging and exciting environment.

To be successful in this role you'll need to have a passion for technology and a genuine desire to work for one of the leading technology companies in this market sector.

If you're ready for an exciting new challenge, email your CV and salary expectations to fiona@buddi.co.uk and tell her in no more than 100 words why you want to work for Buddi, and what difference you will make to our team.

Closing date 20 October 2017.

Strictly no agencies.